MAGAZINE REVIEW

FAVORABLY CRITICIZED BY DR. CLARK

Poems, Stories and Essays of Literary Value—

"The Box of The Magician," By
Stephens, High Class

The first issue of the Literary Magazine for the current school year has just appeared. It contains two short poems, one story, and three essays in addition to the usual editorial departments. This material is well-arranged and is all worthy of a place in the Magazine.

The two poems referred to are nature descriptions and this work is one of the hardest things to do and do effectively. Neither of these efforts rises to the level of inspiration nor does either of them fall below the dignity of the work of a college student. Matoake is signed Neyron and the author is, no doubt, a certain fellow who a year or two ago wrote several poems for the Magazine and then suddenly discontinued his efforts in this direction. It is to be hoped that he will persevere for he sees clearly and versifies easily and so ought to improve. Alf J. Mapp appears for the first time in the Lit. Though he is already a junior in college, he handles the Iambic Pentameter with ease and some grace and has given here a very creditable night scene.

The story entitled The Box of the Magician is by all odds the best thing in the Magazine. Mr. Stephens has become well-known through the columns of the Lit. and this story is worthy of his hand which shows increasing skill. This story is to be commended for the grace and facility of style and diction, the attention to detail in the development of the plot, the clearness of the imagination and the skill with which the interest is kept at high pitch.

Court Life in the Days of Elizabeth, written by a man who was once the Editor-in-Chief of the Mag. is clearly conceived in outline and interestingly written. The author allows himself to fall into some infelicities of style which need to be guarded against. For example: "The rule for conduct in such matters was to follow that which will produce," etc. where "will" probably ought to be "would." Again: "Every one turns out to render their good wishes," a slip which it is hard to avoid and is most frequently not

TIGERS DEFEAT INDIANS

Williamsburgers Handicapped by Wet Field—
Ellis and Copeland do Good Work—Fentress
Fails at Drop Kick—Score 9 to 0.

On a soggy field, Thanksgiving day at Norfolk, Hampden-Sidney defeated William and Mary in a well-played game of football by the score of 9 to 0.

About half of the field was on the league park baseball diamond and the rain the day before had made it impossible for any good football to be played on it. Had it not been so muddy it is doubtful whether Hampden-Sidney would have scored when she did. With the exception of the first few minutes it was a good game.

William and Mary kicked off to Hampden-Sidney and in a short while the ball was carried to the muddy portion of the field. Here both sides floundered; especially the Williamsburgers. Along about the 25-yard line a play was sent through the line which could not hold and the runner passed several men who attempted to shoot at him but lost their footing and slipped. On the grass on a dry field the runner would not have made much over a yard or so on this play.

The remainder of the quarter was scoreless with our team showing more fight and "pep." Our team took the ball from Hampden-Sidney in our territory but failing to advance it punted.

In the scored quarter Hampden-Sidney scored on the Indians again. Bringing the ball to about the 30-yard line, and being thrown back at their repeated attempts at the line and ends, they essayed a field goal and made it, making the score 9-0. This ended the scoring. In this same quarter our goal was threatened again but recovered the ball on a fumble.

The second half was the decidedly better played half. Both sides fought hard and the play was faster. The oval switched from the territory of one to the others; each side taking it from the other. The third quarter was replete with punting. Close outkicked his rival by considerable distance; at one time he gained on an exchange of punts 45 yards or better.

In the last quarter William and Mary clearly outclassed Hampden-Sidney. Ends runs by Ellis and finge plunges by Close, Goslee and Fentress brought the ball to Hampden-Sidney's 20-yard line. The Tigers stiffened and on the fourth Fentress tried a drop kick but it went wide. With less than a minute to play the Indians threw the Tigers for two successive losses. Then the whistle blew ending the game.

The game was well played with the exception of the first few minutes. Hampden-Sidney made several fumbles that the Indians recovered. Captain Thurman of the Tigers played a good game but not quite as brilliant as usual. For William and Mary Copeland played exceptionally well in the line while Ellis made several long end runs and hit the line and Close punted at his best so far as the condition of the ball would permit.

The line-up:

W. & M.	Position	H.-S.
Maddox	left end	Warran
Edwards	left tackle	Porter
Garber	left guard	Scott
Wilson (c)	center	Gill-spie
Copeland	right guard	Allen
Reid	right tackle	Asams
Somers	right end	Warren
Fentress	quarter back	Thurman (c)
Elis	right half	Palmore
Close	full back	Crisp

Officials—McGuire, referee, (Harvard). Curry (Davidson) umpire. Bayne, head lineman, (Davidson). Touchdowns, Palmore. Field goal, Porter. Substitutes—H. S. Lyle for Porter. Herzig for Adams. Goalzby for Scott. W. & M. none.

Cashier—"Get somebody to stand for you and I'll cash the check.

Catilina—"Don't you know my uncle?"

Cashier—"Who is he?"

Catilina—"Uncle Sam."

Prof. (before beginning lecture) "Are there any questions?"

Student (on back bench) "What is the lesson, please?"

T' DANSANT GIVEN

MOST DELIGHTFUL SOCIAL AFFAIR

Selections Rendered by Glee Club and College Quartet—J. Cooper Reeves in Solo Dance—Refreshments Served.

Last Tuesday afternoon from four to six in the College Gymnasium a T' Dansant was given under the auspices of the Womans' Club in town. It proved to be a most delightful affair and was thoroughly enjoyed by all. The gymnasium was fittingly decorated for the occasion, and throughout the afternoon tea and wafers were served to the guests. A number of the college students and young ladies from town were present.

Dancing by J. Cooper Reeves was one of the features of the program. Mr. Reeves took lessons under Vernon Castle, and his graceful performance in Egyptian, Turkish and Grecian dances was heartily appreciated by the onlookers. A lengthy applause followed each of his appearances on retirement from the floor. Other dances by children proved to add interest and enjoyment to the function. During the evening the College quartet rendered several selections in a manner most pleasing to the ear. The Glee Club was also given an opportunity to blend their voices in harmony to the delight of those present.

Later on the opportunity to dance was given to all. Music was furnished by the Model School Victrola, the recent and timely gift of the Womans' Club, and the happy couples found their way intermingling around the hall a number of times before evening was over.

The T' Dansant was a success in every way and it is to be hoped that this is only the first of many similar occasions.

MAGAZINE OUT

The first issue of the Literary Magazine came out last Saturday. It was a little late because material was slow in coming in and school was late starting.

Owing to high price of paper it was difficult to have it printed on the same quality of paper as was used last year.

The cover is the same as was adopted some years ago. There are 255 copies printed per issue. Besides the regular subscribers and exchanges, the Magazine will go to high schools all over the state.

The second copy will probably come out before the holidays.

LITERARY SOCIETY WORK

We recognize the value of the literary society, not so much as an organization in which to display eloquence but one in which to develop the ability of expression with clearness and emphasis. It cultivates the capacity of an individual to think on the rostrum quickly and accurately. In whatever phase of life you may find yourself, you may will be assured that your position will be high or low in proportion to your mental discipline, which is manifest only through expression. You may have the mind of a genius but the failure to give an outlet to your store of thought will put you on a back seat. How important then is that organization which gives freedom to your ideas?

The faculty recognizes the value of training in society work, and a college credit is given to those who appear a certain number of times on the platform. The credit is well earned, and the student is amply repaid by the amount of training received.

The literary society is of social value. It draws the students into a close fellowship, and teaches them responsibility to the group. When on the program, they must not prove a disappointment. There is a growing dislike for any sign of a lack of preparation, and the speaker is impressed with a sense of duty to his fellow-members.

The literary society is a source of pleasure. Programs, flavored with wit and humor, are rendered and lively repartee is a frequent occurrence. The work itself is pleasurable to a large number. A restriction had to be placed on volunteer work, in order to keep within a reasonable duration of time. Society work is a fitting recreation in an educational institution.

We commend to you literary society work, because of its value in developing the capacity of expression, because of its social value, and because of its recreative value. If you are not a member of a literary society, join without delay.

Y. M. C. A. NEWS

It was peculiarly fitting that Dr. W. D. Weatherford, the secretary of the Young Men's Christian Association of the South, should deliver the first address of the College Vesper Service, which was instituted at William and Mary this year. The committee has been no less fortunate in securing Mr. Freeman, editor of The News Leader, as the speaker for the second of these services which is to be held Sunday, Dec. 10, at 4 p. m. All who read the editorials of the News Leader do not need to be told what an able man Mr. Freeman is, for his pen has made for him a reputation hardly surpassed in the newspaper circles in Virginia.

The preparation for these Vesper Services require much time and hard work, not only in getting up the special music, but in securing a good speaker; and it is hoped that the college community will show their appreciation by giving Mr. Freeman a hearty welcome. The public is invited to this service, and it will not be thought amiss for those who stroll on Sunday afternoons to stroll toward the College Chapel with the ladies.

Mr. E. Ruffin Jones, rector of Bruton Parish church, conducted chapel last week the first two of the voluntary services. Mr. Jones spoke on the subject of the Honor System giving briefly its history and for what it stands. He claimed that the present code of honor is not full enough, since a definite reaction to its violation takes place only in the case of cheating on examination. However, the speaker expressed his very high commendation of the student body in the recent adoption of the constitution for self government, and while it will take time, Mr. Jones said, "To create the same attitude toward other forms of immorality that now exist toward cheating on examinations, yet the stronger stand the students take for a broader honor system, the sooner it will come."

PHI BETA KAPPA MEETING

Tonight the local chapter of Phi Beta Kappa will hold its 140th annual celebration. This society was founded at William and Mary December 5th, 1776, and the annual meeting is called to order on the anniversary of that date.

A public address will be given in the College Chapel at 8 o'clock by Col. George Harvey, Editor of the North American Review.

Among those to receive keys are: G. L. H. Johnson, W. C. Ferguson, Col. Geo. Harvey, F. H. McCandish and Dr. H. S. Cummings. Congressman Carter Glass was to be initiated into the Society but will be unable to receive the honor at this time because of the convening of Congress.

WE want all the students at William & Mary to know that we have opened an up-to-date Clothing Store in Williamsburg. We will carry at all times a complete stock of Suits, Hats, Haberdashery, etc. Catering especially to the college boys.

ACADEMY LOSES TO ST. VINCENT

In what undoubtedly was the quickest played game ever staged in the city of Newport News a team playing under the name of St. Vincent's Academy Thanksgiving morning defeated the William and Mary team at Horwitz park by the score of 13 to 0. The Catholics did all their scoring in the first half, being forced on the defensive in the last two periods. The first touchdown was due to two prettily executed forward passes, the second one putting the ball over the goal line. Jackson scored the first marger and Howard kicked goal. The second touchdown came on a trick play, Brant taking the ball over.

Absence of two regulars from the line greatly weakened the Academy's work. Weikert as usual was the star of the game. West also performed excellently. Gray's and Stout's work in the line was good while henley was good on the defense.

The Academy had the best of the argument in the last half. The game ended with the ball on their opponent's two-yard line.

The line-up:

S. V. A.	Positions.	W. & M. A.
Richards	right end	Henley
Smith	right tackle	Renick
Jones	right guard	Chappell
Hanlon	center	Stout
Barfield	left guard	Thomas
Fuller	left tackle	Gray
Jackson	left end	Foster
Brant	quarterback	Weikert
Carroll	right half	West
Hanna	left half	Wornom
Howard	fullback	Amory

Substitutes: William and Mary
Acadamey--McGinnis for Wornom;
St. Vincent--McArthur for Hanlon,

Jackson for Fuller. Officials:

VOCAL-MUSICAL ENTERTAINMENT

In the College Chapel on Friday, Dec. 8th at 8 o m. a concert will be given by the college Glee and Mandolin Clubs and quartet. A program of high order—unique to say the least—can be expected. J. Foster Barnes, a recent William and Mary student, now a singer in one of the largest churches in Richmond, will probably be on the program. Shackelford, Beale and Winsbro are likely to take part.

Prof. Crawford promises an hour and a half's fine entertainment. The members of the above clubs have been working faithfully for nearly two months and have shown splendid talent. These clubs are college organizations and the students should support them, as they do other teams, by their presence. This is the second appearance of the Glee Club this season and judging from this initial performance, we are assured of a musical entertainment far from being second class in its quality.

MAGAZINE REVIEW

avoided. Would it not be wise for you men who write these essays to get the habit of quoting in foot-notes the sources of your authority for your statements?

The essay on James Whitcomb Riley shows that the author has read Riley and enjoyed him. But Mr. Inle has not made the most of his subject; there is more in it for him and he ought to have given it to us. He is guilty also of some infelicities which experience will enable him to avoid. At the very beginning he identifies "comment" with "criticism" and seems to be of the opinion that criticism must be adverse. It seems plain that such appreciations as this are the kind of thing Mr. Inle can do and he ought to give us more.

The One-Poem Poets of the South is a most creditable little essay. It is clear, frank, personal. And all these qualities are high praise. Now and then the author allows himself to fall into a very ordinary style but on the whole this essay belongs beside The Box of the Magician as the best things in this issue of the Literary Magazine. And we are glad to have this kind of a Magazine go out from the College.

BASKETBALL SCHEDULE

Manager Wilson of the basketball team has concluded the arranging of his schedule for the coming season. The first game will be played on the home grounds with the Union Theological Seminary quint of Richmond as the opponents. After the Christmas holidays the team will go away on a five-game trip, on which Hampden Sidney, Virginia Christian College, Roanoke College, V. P. I. and V. M. I. will be played in the order mentioned. The game with the Tigers will be the first game of the Indians in the championship series. It is very probable that the fast Fairmont basketekers will be seen in action on the local floor. Several former William and Mary stars have agreed to play with the Richmond quint and their presence will make the game very interesting from every angle. Gayle and Stryker are expected to hold down center and right guard respectively on the Fairmont quint this season.

The Indian's team will be made up of new men largely. Robertson is the only letter man in the winter sport at college. Last year this rangy athlete filled a guard position but will be shifted to center this year because of his height. The team will miss the services of Jones, Zion, Stryker, Gayle and Zhemer, who were lost through graduation. The team will be coached by Hubbard. The captain has not yet been selected. Stryker was selected to act in this capacity but failed to return to college.

The schedule follows:

- Dec. 14, Union Theological Seminary at Williamsburg.
- Jan. 16, Hampden-Sidney College (championship) at Hampden-Sidney.
- Jan. 17, Virginia Christian College at Lynchburg.
- Jan. 18, Roanoke College at Salem.
- Jan. 19, Virginia Polytechnic Institute at Blacksburg.
- Jan. 20, Virginia Military Institute at Lexington.
- Feb. 10, Fairmont Athletic Club at Williamsburg (pending).
- Feb. 14, Randolph-Macon College (championship) at Ashland.
- Feb. 17, Hampden-Sidney College (championship) at Williamsburg.
- Feb. 21, Richmond College (championship) at Williamsburg.
- Feb. 24, Randolph-Macon College (championship) at Williamsburg.
- Feb. 28, Richmond College (championship) at Richmond.
